

HORNER'S SALES TAX BILL AGAIN DEFEATED

AMELIA EARHART FLIES NON-STOP MEXICO-NEW YORK

GREAT CROWD GREETES FLIER AT AIRPORT

Covers 2100 Miles In 14 Hours And 22 Minutes

By J. Newman Wright Associated Press

Newark, N. J., May 8.—(P)—Amelia Earhart, tired but happy, brought her red monoplane across the 2,100 miles between Mexico, D. F., and Newark airport today, making the first non-stop flight from the Mexican capital to the greater New York area.

Her face and hands were dirty, but she grinned as she brought her ship to ground at 9:28:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, 14 hours, 22 minutes and 50 seconds after her perilous takeoff from a three-mile runway.

She landed as one of the greatest crowds ever assembled at Newark airport shouted and screamed their cheers and struggled against an inadequate force of thirty policemen, assigned to the field for the emergency.

So great was the crush so mad was the enthusiasm of the men and women to catch a glimpse of the woman, who has conquered two oceans by air and made numerous cross-country flights, that minutes passed before the police could get her safely to a National Guard hangar.

George Palmer Putnam, Miss Earhart's husband, said it was "the worst crowd I've ever seen."

The police finally managed to get Earhart into a police car, but the progress of the car was slow. The crowds jammed around it, still yelling. Miss Earhart waved at the faces turned towards her.

Her own face was smudged with oil and grease. She wore flying boots, a man's shirt and a diagonally striped necktie.

A hundred feet from the hangar her husband reached her side. Then the police had a tougher time, for Miss Earhart had got out of the car. The escort literally had to drag them along to the security of the hangar.

After nearly an hour at Newark airport Miss Earhart and her husband left by car for New York.

The single-motored monoplane which carried Miss Earhart from Mexico was the one she used on her Atlantic and Pacific flights. Her attempts to fly non-stop from Burbank, Calif., to Mexico was broken 60 miles from her destination when a bug got in her eye.

She was determined more than ever then to fulfill her desire to make the first non-stop flight to New York. But delays ensued because it was held too dangerous to take the heavy ship, which weighed 3,000 pounds today on its departure—off the short runway at the Mexican capital. A longer one was constructed.

Today everything was prime for the flight. At 7:06 a. m. (E.S.T.) the ship's wheels left the ground. The plane lifted slowly, then rapidly to an altitude of 10,000 feet. Its nose pointed over the wild Mexican mountains to the Gulf of Mexico then straight across the 100 miles of water to make the first landfall at Mobile, Ala., at one minute past 2 p. m.

A few seconds before 8:06 p. m. Miss Earhart swooped low over Washington airport, radioed her greetings to those on the ground, and set off for the final leg in her triumphal flight.

ASSERT SOCIAL SECURITY BILL CONSTITUTIONAL

Senate Administration Leaders Press For Quick Approval

Washington, May 8.—(P)—Backed by a justice department assertion of its constitutionality, Senate administration leaders pressed today for quick committee approval of President Roosevelt's social security program.

Both the White House and Capitol received legal opinions measuring the security bill—with its old-age pension and unemployment insurance taxes—by standards set in the Supreme Court's invalidation of the railway retirement act. President Roosevelt held confidential for study the views given him by Attorney General Cummings.

But Angus D. MacLean, assistant solicitor general, told the Senate finance committee the rail decision would not upset the security program because the bill was framed on different constitutional grounds than was the railroad law.

After this testimony, Chairman Harrison said the committee would begin consideration of the measure section by section tomorrow with the hope of reporting it to the Senate by the week-end.

The justice department view, however, was challenged sharply in some quarters.

In official circles there were suggestions that President Roosevelt might seek to get a substitute railroad pension law through Congress if some means could be found to meet the Supreme Court's objections. Though the chief executive did not recommend the original law and was critical of the method in which it was drawn, he was described as highly sympathetic with its objectives.

On Capitol Hill, however, it was regarded as more likely that the social security bill would be amended to include pension law through Congress if some means could be found to meet the Supreme Court's objections.

ALL INDUSTRY IN BELLEVILLE AT STANDSTILL

Protest Hiring Of New Men By Illinois Power Company

Belleville, Ill., May 8.—(P)—Industrial activity here a standstill here tonight as organized labor took a holiday to protest against the hiring of new men by the Illinois Power and Light Company to replace its striking union workers.

Twelve stove plants, the city's major industry, and several other manufacturing establishments were forced to close their doors as union workers walked away from their jobs. An unofficial estimate said more than 3,000 men were participating in the holiday, called by the central trades and labor union.

Al Towers, secretary of the labor union, said the action was to protest against the hiring of armed guards and strike-breakers, by the power company. "Untold trouble is in sight if these guards remain in St. Clair county," he declared, insisting armed men had been brought in from other states to protect the new hires.

The power company hired outside electrical workers to replace strikers after the Illinois Utilities Commission issued an order that it restore service immediately. Unable to get the strikers to return to work, the company employed new men and special deputy sheriffs were appointed to protect them.

The general labor holiday began this morning when 3,000 stove plant workers left their posts. They were followed by another 1,000 men from the clothing and shoe plants and gas workers from the power company who were not involved in the previous strike. William Adrian, a striking gas worker estimated gas on hand would last only two days.

As the gas workers walked out a crowd of nearly 3,000 men gathered at the power plant and, although they made no demonstrations, virtually made employees prisoners inside the company's buildings. Union leaders did not indicate how long the holiday would be in force.

GOP FILIBUSTER IN LOWER HOUSE IS SUCCESSFUL

All Legislation Is Halted Except Relief Bill

Springfield, Ill., May 8.—(P)—Republicans succeeded in stopping House action today as they opened their filibuster in behalf of the Schackenberg bills for permanent registration of voters.

Stalled by dilatory tactics from the minority side, the House was in session only an hour this morning, with nothing accomplished.

The filibuster was stopped during the afternoon consideration of the relief bills, but Republican leaders declared it would be resumed tomorrow.

"This is the opening gun in a concentrated drive for honest elections in Illinois," said Leroy M. Green of Rockford in behalf of his Republican followers.

Fair consideration of the permanent registration bills has been prevented, week after week, by those Chicago political leaders who benefit by corrupt elections. The filibuster will continue unabated until these permanent registration bills are placed upon the House calendar for fair consideration by the full House."

The House was tied up by the filibuster, which started when Green insisted the 18-page journal be read in full. The Democrats, having more than the 77-vote majority, succeeded in suspending the rule regarding the journal after Clerk Harold J. Taylor had read one page.

Then a roll call was demanded to see who was present. As the minority leaders refused to permit short cuts in procedure, no bills were considered.

On a motion to recess for five hours, the Republicans again demanded a roll call, during which they praised Speaker John P. Devine and expressed confidence in his fairness.

Frank W. McClure of Abingdon, anti-Horner Democrat, voted with the Republicans.

The permanent registration bill are in the custody of an elections sub-committee, controlled by Democrats.

Republicans To Raise Funds In N. Y., Illinois

Money Will Be Used in Pre-1936 Activity of National Committee

Washington, May 8.—(P)—A plan to drum up funds for financing the pre-1936 activity of the Republican National committee by soliciting money in New York and Illinois was agreed upon today by GOP leaders.

The decision was reached at a conference in the office of Chairman Henry P. Fletcher, attended by George F. Getz of Chicago, treasurer, and other Republican chiefs. Getz left immediately for Chicago to head the drive in Illinois and Fletcher went to New York, where tomorrow he is to talk with party wheelerhooses.

Meanwhile, reports of "left wingers" in the house brought from Speaker Byrns a laugh and one more prediction of the re-election of President Roosevelt.

Indicative of a conflict of Georgia Democratic views, Representative Cox (D-Ga.) made known today that he would make to the radio soon a reply over a veto if it did not get the support of two-thirds of the Senate on original passage.

WOULD DEVELOP NEW MARKET FOR FARM PRODUCTS

Representatives Of Agriculture And Industry Meet

By W. Howe Sadler Associated Press Staff Writer
Dearborn, Mich., May 8.—(P)—The Dearborn conference took definite steps today to make American agriculture a partner in modern industrial production.

Representatives of agriculture, industry, and science approved unanimously a resolution introduced by Harper Sibley, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, calling for the creation of a council which would become the co-ordinating agency in "developing new industrial markets for farm products."

The step calls for appointment of a committee of 15 to form a national organization to supervise the practical application in industry of numerous agricultural products which have been utilized experimentally in manufacturing processes.

The resolution was in line with a message to the conference from Henry Ford, who declared he was convinced that farm production of industrial supplies was both inevitable and essential.

"I believe we are on the track of a new partnership between farm and factory," Ford said "x x x the result will be that agriculture will have an unfailing market and industry will have constant employment, because a balance will have been reached."

The resolution was adopted shortly after proposals to utilize farm products for the manufacture of power alcohol had stirred up a storm in the conference, with experts disagreeing sharply over the merits of alcohol as a motor fuel blend.

The resolution contained five objectives: 1—To gradually absorb domestic farm surplus by domestic energy. 2—Put idle acres to work profitably. 3—Increase the purchasing power of the American farmer on a stable and more permanent basis. 4—To increase the demand for manufacturing products. 5—To create new work for idle hands to do, revive American industry, restore American labor to productive enterprise, and relieve the economic distress of the nation.

NEED THIRTEEN MORE VOTES TO PASS TAX LEVY

Opposition Gains Two Votes During Long Debate

By Milburn P. Akers Associated Press Staff Writer
Springfield, Ill., May 8.—(P)—The Illinois Relief financing crisis continued tonight as the house of representatives for the third time refused to pass Governor Horner's bill to increase the sales tax to three per cent.

Democratic leaders suspended consideration of the bill when the incomplete roll call stood at 89 to 57, thirteen less than the required 103 two-thirds majority for immediate enactment of the tax increase.

The administration, seeking to comply with the demand of Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins that Illinois raise $3,000,000 monthly before it gets further new deal grants, planned a fourth attempt to pass the sales tax bill.

When the roll call was suspended, no effort was made to pass the bill with the constitutional majority of 77 votes which would put the tax increase into effect on July 1.

The vote on the same bill last Wednesday night was 88 to 55. After a week's hard work, during which the relief crisis became more serious, the administration gained one additional vote while the Republican opposition picked up two.

Speaker John P. Devine, who took the floor to urge passage of the bill, announced that another effort would be made to pass the bill with the 102 majority but he did not know whether it would be this week.

From Chicago, the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission announced that its funds have been exhausted in 91 of the state's 102 counties.

Hopkins granted the commission no federal funds on May 1 because the legislature had failed to comply with his demand that the state furnish $3,000,000 monthly, approximately a quarter of the amount that has been spent to care for the destitute jobless in Illinois.

The unofficial tally showed 78 Democrats supporting the bill, being joined by eleven Republicans. The only down state Republican on the affirmative side was Reuben M. Sedstrom of Streator, President of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

In opposition were three Democrats and 34 Republicans.

After the action was taken, minority leader L. M. Green of Rockford, issued a statement saying: "The opponents of an increased sales tax are not opposed to raising the required sum on needed for well administered relief. We are opposed to the method adopted to raise the funds. We condemn the failure of the state administration to conserve the income of the state for the past two years, so that increased taxation might be avoided."

"The present situation and apparent crisis has been deliberately brought about by the Democratic administration in collusion with the Democratic administration in this state for the purpose of forcing the passage of the sales tax increase bills."

He charged inefficient administration of the present sales tax law and denounced state and Washington authorities for not yielding to Republican demands for a reorganization of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

"The Democratic administration seeks to force enough Republicans to vote for this unfair unpopular measure so that they may claim that it is a bi-partisan, non-political enactment and dodge the responsibility which properly should be placed on their shoulders," Green said.

The Republicans offered to support a pending bill, companion to the sales tax increase, to appropriate $7,500,000 from the state treasury for the relief efforts.

Work For The Willing

Not long ago a German youth of 20
inserted an ad in a rural weekly paper in the east, stating his desire to work for a good home and $10 a month. He gave his qualifications, which evidently appealed to a wide circle of readers.
He received 300 replies offering him
the job he wanted.

The youth secured a place for himself and one for a friend. He turned the remainder of the replies over to the relief agencies in the hope that they would assist others in finding employment. The agencies he approached, he says, were unable to convince unemployed persons that earning a living would be better for them than using relief funds.

Some may say that the demands of the young man were too small, that he should have asked more money, but he made sure of a home and enough money to provide what he might need.
He has found work and a chance to better himself in an environment that is free from the influence of the dol-

A Fad Hits Town

The chain letter fad has hit Jacksonville. Some say there is money to be made, but when the fad dies out,
those who invested last will be left holding the bag. Profits in this game go to the early investors, who catch the public at the high tide of enthusiasm and cash in on the willingness of others to contribute their money.

Hundreds who have received chain letters take pride in breaking the chain. Others hasten to multiply the letters and invest their money. But the fact that the chain is broken and that enthusiasm, dimes and dollars have an end bodes ill for the chain letter.

Why The Battle

The rift between business and the present administration has no doubt raised the question why in the minds of many. The attitude of business toward the New Deal has grown more resistant during the past few months.
Many who were enthusiastic a year ago are now doubtful; those who were on the fence have turned hostile, and the men who were originally opposed have taken a more decided stand.

The reason is plain enough. Washington shows a tendency to spend more and more of the people's money without any attempt to balance the national budget. Business knows that bankruptcy would soon engulf any private concern that used this method.
The government shows a tendency to make permanent emergency agencies and keep alive in the nation the very things recovery should get rid of. Socialistic schemes are rife in the capital.

Business is conservative, feeling that recovery should be based on the creation of new wealth to take the place of that dissipated in the depression.
Business would like to see private industry given help to re-employ people and take them off the dole. Business wants to see buying power restored thru industrial payrolls, and also the return of individual initiative.

The split between the New Deal and business is based on fundamental principles; the one standing for the expansion of bureaucracy and the concentration of power in huge government agencies, the other believing that American life was not built that way and cannot endure without the free expression of the people's individuality.

Back to The Farm

According to a recent order, 323,000 German women will go back to the farm as wives of farmers. These women will not work in the kitchen, but are likely to find themselves at hard labor in the fields. There is a shortage of German women on the farms,
tho there are 8,000,000 unmarried women in the Reich.

The shortage on the farms came about when the women went to the cities years ago because there were few dwelling houses in the country.

But the government has appropriated $100,000,000 for new farm houses, and that situation is being remedied. The wives intended for Nazi farmers may find new homes awaiting them when they arrive.

The rehabilitation of thousands of women on the farms in Germany is but another example of the way people in Europe are pushed about by the dictatorial governments they endure.
The moves may be beneficial, but whether they are or not, they have to be made if the government says so.
It may be that in time Americans can become used to this sort of ordering about of the people; but at the present time there are millions who have no stomach for this type of government.

Faith in Americanism

From The Times, Geneva, N. Y.
Dr. Ernest Hopkins of Dartmouth College made a clear statement recently in behalf of that much-discussed issue, academic freedom.

"I have never been willing to accept the principle of any restriction of what students should hear or talk about," he said, in a speech before the Alumni Association.

"We have a few undergraduates now
who would like to think themselves Communists. That's better than having them all think alike."

"Undergraduates should be required to learn the fundamental principles of government, economics and social relations, with 'historical knowledge illustrative of these.'"

Even the facts of governmental systems which stand for the suppression of all freedom except for themselves should be taught, he argues, for "I believe that the fallacies of such systems will reveal themselves more evidently in the light of open discussion than in the obscurity of artificial incivilities and of whispered argument."

It does seem like a lack of faith in our American system not to let it stand on its merits in academic comparison with other political systems of which we disapprove.

Suspended Animation

For many years novelists have entertained their readers with stories of suspended animation. It is a favorite trick to project a character born in the present into a future age and allow him to have exciting adventures.
But actual experience of any value has thus far been lacking.

Now, however, a method of freezing animals to death under such conditions that they can be restored to life,
seem to have been discovered. Dr.
Ralph Willard, youthful research chemist in a Hollywood laboratory, has performed such an experiment after five years of patient work. He is credited with restoring to normalcy a guinea pig which had been dead three days.

In the first place, Dr. Willard injects sodium citrate into the veins of the pig to prevent coagulation of the blood. Then the animal is put under an anesthetic and carbon dioxide is used to freeze it. In two hours the animal is apparently lifeless, frozen to death, but is in reality in a state of suspended animation.

The restorative process consists of application of heat to bring back normal temperature of the body, a blood transfusion to start heart action, and injection of adrenalin to quicken it.
The press reports the pig on which the experiment was tried was soon walking about and nibbling a stalk of spinach.
It was apparently normal; but any youngster would hardly consider nibbling spinach a normal act.

Holdup of Progress

The supreme court's decision on the government's Parker Dam project in the Colorado river will probably have a far-reaching effect on the whole PWA program, as far as it relates to construction of dams.

Denying the government's request for an injunction to prohibit Arizona from interfering with building Parker Dam, the court ruled that dams cannot be thrown across navigable streams without the specific authorization of Congress.

This would seem to leave the government with two alternatives; to modify its whole program profoundly,
or to go to Congress and get authorization for the various projects which come under the Parker Dam classification—including, for example, the Grand Coulee project in Washington
the Bonneville Dam in Oregon, and the Fort Peck reservoir in Montana.

For the moment, the decision seems to leave a vast amount of work right up in the air.

and will be given in costume. The Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who helps Joe Robinson try to run the Senate for Roosevelt, is the committee's chairman. He worries a lot over the likelihood that Huey Long—an NRA foe—will enter his state next year and block his re-election.

There's great resentment against NRA and much non-compliance in Mississippi. Pat's heart just wasn't in it when it came to a fight for the Eagle.

Fumble, Stumble Fall

The boys went to the White House and Mr. Roosevelt fumbled the ball all over the Oval Room. Accounts vary as to what was said, but all agree the president at no time put his foot down and demanded committee support for the administration bill.

"Economy" in the Navy

Congressman Fred Biermann of Iowa: "When our navy reaches treaty strength, according to the testimony of Admiral Standley, it is going to cost us $555,000,000 a year to maintain it."

Congressman Glover Cary of Kentucky: "I was very much surprised, indeed, to hear the gentleman stand up on the floor of this house and talk about economy in a naval appropriation bill."

After that the ball was Pat's and he acted as if someone had told him to rush it back through the administration's own goal posts.

He appointed a drafting committee to formulate the resolution.
The committee consisted of himself and two of NRA's ablest, most implacable foes on the committee
—Bennett Clark of Missouri and Dan Hastings of Delaware.

This sub-committee produced its resolution and several staunch administration members of the full committee got the idea it was just what Roosevelt wanted.

Dying By Inches

The Resolution's intra-state commerce clause, as the NRA legal division sees it, would destroy nearly all NRA codes. Its extension for less than a year would sentence NRA to a slow but certain death. Its 30-day period for code revision is another fatal dose.

And NRA will die in any event if Roosevelt isn't empowered to impose codes of wages and hours, as the committee resolution doesn't provide and the administration NRA bill did.

But there's still some chance that NEA can be revived and saved between the Senate floor and the House—if the supreme court doesn't slip in a coup de grace in the meantime.

The only fellow who showed up as a bright boy in the whole performance was Senator Clark—who has had a violent hate on NRA from the beginning and came to the party with the sharpest knife.

Boom for Al Smith

Certain Old Guard Republicans
on Capitol Hill are secretly spreading the idea that Al Smith might be a good presidential candidate on a 1936
"fusion" ticket. One is Congressman Walter Andrews of New York, who often reflects the views of Congressman Jimmy Wadsworth. Meanwhile, some of Al's closest friends here say they're willing to bet F. D. won't be renominated.

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Perkins and Senator Bob Wagner are quietly lobbying for and against her proposal to put the new labor disputes machinery Wagner seeks under her department. Wagner has sent his secretary around to House labor committee members, while Miss Perkins works through Assistant Secretary Ed McGrady, ex-A. F. of L. lobbyist.

Arrangements have been made for mass distribution—but not sale—
of a just-published book which violently attacks the administration.

Closing Ordinance Passed
and Put Into Effect;
Other News Notes

Carrollton, Ill.—After almost a year of an ordinance which permitted the sale of beer on Sundays, the new ordinance No. 142 which prohibits the sale of all alcoholic liquors on Sundays and between the hours of 12 o'clock midnight and six o'clock a. m.,
was put into effect Sunday, May 3.
Every licensee holding a Class A, B or C license when his principal business is the sale of alcoholic liquors, must close the place during the stipulated hours and on Sundays.

Where the licensee holding a Class
A license dispenses alcoholic liquors
only incidental to his other business, such licensee may keep his place of business open for the sale of merchandise, food, etc., other than alcoholic liquor without regard to the stated hours on Sunday, but the said licensee shall not sell, give, barter, exchange or permit the consumption of any alcoholic liquor in his place of business or on the premises, during the stated hours or on Sundays and must display a sign stating that department of the business is closed in compliance with the ordinance. For any violation of this ordinance a minimum fine of not less than $50.00
and a maximum of not more than $200.00 for each offense.

Stocking Tops to State
Patients in City

Sometime ago, a story appeared in this paper concerning Mrs. Marie A.
Buneaux, 8331 Constance Ave., Chicago, Illinois, who from time to time sends to the Jacksonville State Hospital silk stocking tops, discarded illn-gerie and silk pieces for the use of the ex-service men hospitalized here.

It will be recalled that Mrs. Buneaux is connected with the Woman's Relief Corps Number 62 of Chicago and as the fiscal year of the Woman's Relief Corps comes to a close, Mrs.
Buneaux will be called upon to make her committee report and she has tallied up her work for the year and the item of silk stocking tops alone totals 1,192.

Some of the beautiful hooked rugs and wall hangings are made from these discarded articles and assist in the reclaiming of patient's health and happiness as well as making an artistic decoration for the ward.
Other club groups at various points
in the state have also forwarded carpet rags, etc., to the institution which is also very much appreciated but none have reached the goal set by the untiring efforts of Mrs. Buneaux of W.R.C. No. 62, Chicago.

My Cookery News Notes

By LUCILE HARRIS

Editor's Note: "Cookery News Notes" is a new feature of this newspaper, and will be followed with interest by our women readers. The writer is Lucile Harris, staff member of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, recognized authority on cookery of all kinds and especially meat cookery and the planning of meals around the meat course. Experimental cookery has developed a good deal of new information about cooking meat, which is contrary to old ideas. This series of articles will give our readers this new information in helpful form, and will also give a series of excellent recipes and suggestions for serving the meat course of the meal.

WHY NOT TEACH HUSBAND TO CARVE?

Custom has decreed that carving roast or steak falls to the lot of the man of the house, but many a man has pushed aside custom with the flatterer's excuse, "But you do it so much better, my dear." And yet I have found that men who really can carve, are quite keen about doing it. If you are one of those wives who have been doing both cooking and carving, why not encourage your husband to take over the job? Today and on one other day I am going to discuss some of the fundamentals and some of the fine points of the gentle art of carving. I shall leave it to your ingenuity to get the facts across to father.

Do Your Part!

But before we start, let's get your part of the carving game out of the way. First, put the meat on a platter large enough so that there will be no spilling over the edges, while carving and serving are in progress. And, second, have the right kind of a knife and see that it is sharp. To be sure, you may invite father to the kitchen to sharpen it for you just before dinner is served, but never at the table. "Why is there a nice steel to match my set?" you ask. Other days, other customs, I suspect, and the steel in the carving set has descended from those other days.

Carving a Steak

But on with our carving lessons, the largest first! And that will be the steak. No not quite, beef tenderloin is the simplest of all, but all you can do is to cut it across in neat slices, so we won't take up space telling about it.

And now to the steak. Some folks like to cut out the bone before broiling, but I don't. A steak is such a good looking piece of meat that I dislike saying it marred in this way.

A steak set is the most convenient to use. In this set, the knife has a thin or 6 inch blade. In carving the steak, separate the meat from the bone by cutting along the edges of the bone with the knife. Then beginning with the wide or bone end of a porterhouse or similar steak, cut into sections an inch or so in width.

Serve Pieces Equally

A strip of the tenderloin and of the portion of the other muscle is served to each one. Usually the "tail" or flank end of a steak is not served, but if it is, it should be portioned out to all, so that, one person does not get all tenderloin and the last one served all tail. It is worth mentioning in passing that a steak bone and trimmings make a perfectly delicious soup stock—not much, to be sure, but don't throw away the steak bone until it has done its entire duty by you.

Always Carve Across Grain.

With the exception of steak, all meat should be carved across the grain. This makes for attractive, even sized portions. There is economy in good carving for a roast "goes farther" when it is expertly carved.

Carving a Rib Roast

A standing rib roast which is easily prepared is also easily carved. The roast is placed on the platter with the ribs at the carver's left. If there are frills on the ribs they serve as a decoration and will be much appreciated by the one who is doing the carving, for he may wish to hold the uppermost rib in his left hand to steady the roast as he cuts it.

If he has his own "pet" ideas of this carving business, he may thrust the fork into the thick center of the roast to hold it firm. Then he cuts very thin slices across the grain of the meat until the knife touches the bone. After several slices have been cut, he draws the point of the knife along the bone to separate the slices from the ribs. This same method should be followed in carving a pot-roast. A boned and rolled pot-roast should be stood on end so it will not skid around on the platter.

If the pot-roast is a 2 or 3 inch slice from the beef chuck it may be a little more difficult to persuade father to slice across the grain, but after he has tried it once, the improved flavor and tenderness of the meat will have sold him on that technique.

Market Man Will Help.

So much of the appetite appeal of a roast as in its attractive appearance when it comes to the table beautifully browned that it seems a pity for the carving to be done in the kitchen. Especially is this true of a pork loin roast. In order to carve this roast with finesse you will need some help beforehand, that is, at the market. Otherwise there will be trouble and much groaning, perhaps some muttering on the part of the carver.

The backbone should be separated from the ribs by sawing directly across the ribs, parallel to the chine bone. Then, after the meat is cooked and before it is brought to the table the backbone should be removed. With this bone off there is nothing to the task of slicing the roast. Loin roasts of all kinds should have this treatment. Veal or lamb loin roasts usually contain the kidney. Each person should be served a piece of kidney and kidney fat with the slice of meat.

NIGHT and DAY

you're safe on CONCRETE

At night the superiority of concrete becomes most apparent because of its visibility. Its light gray surface with sharply defined edges reflects light but is not glossy.

Concrete conforms precisely to the formula for the ideal pavement set up by the International Illumination Congress of 1928 and by the Illuminating Engineering Society in 1934. The importance of this is emphasized by the fact that the rate of death per accident is 43% higher during hours of darkness.

Concrete, smooth but non-skid, insures a quick, certain stop even in the rain. Blow-outs, spring breakage, steering gear failures, accidents of all kinds are less apt to happen on concrete.

Yet concrete is not only safe—it is more comfortable—it saves in driving costs—it costs less for upkeep—and cost of construction is less than that of any other pavement of equal load-carrying capacity.

To protect your car fully, your motor oil must do two things:

1. It must be on duty during the starting period!

More than half of all motor wear occurs in the five minutes after you start, because straight mineral oils drain away, leaving parts dry. Even in warm weather your motor makes at least a thousand revolutions before the quickest-flowing oil can reach all parts.

Only Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil cuts down costly starting wear. It is the only oil that penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, forming a "Hidden Quat" that never drains away. Your motor is lubricated before you touch the starter! You know your motor is protected!

*Motor oils generally have no more oiliness and film strength now than they had 10 years ago. Many new refining methods now used to make oils free from carbon and sludge have lowered instead of increased oiliness and film strength, the very qualities on which depends an oil's lubricating value!

Germ Processed Oil is free from carbon and sludge troubles. But more important, the Germ Process puts into it 2 to 4 times the film strength of straight mineral oil, as Timken machine tests have proved!

CONTINENTAL OIL COMPANY • Est. 1875

2. It must withstand unusual driving stresses!

Cars built in 1932 and since have greatly increased power and speed. Bearing pressures and crankcase temperatures have increased in proportion. Flashing pick-up and high speeds make it necessary to have an oil with enough extra oiliness and film strength to withstand the increased load.*

Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil protects modern motors better because it has 2 to 4 times the film strength of any oil not Germ Processed! It maintains this high film strength at high temperatures. Say "O. K.—Drain"—fill with Germ Processed Oil and get full protection for your motor!

Hundred Women Attend Convention of District Clubs

Twentieth District Women's Clubs in Big Meeting
at Petersburg

Many local chairmen attended the thirty-fourth annual district convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs held at the First Christian church in Petersburg, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Petersburg Woman's club was hostess club at the dinner served Tuesday evening to the district board members and several state officers.

About 100 members were present at the dinner with Mrs. Clarence Skeel, district president, of Kankakee; Mrs. Wm. Franklin Farrell, state president of Chicago, and Mrs. H. A. Harding, of Urbana, state chairman of International Relations, at the speakers table.

Following the banquet Mrs. Farrell addressed the convention delegates and friends in the auditorium of the church which was handsomely decorated and where there were over 250 present.

200 New Members

Mrs. Farrell spoke of the gratification of the state officers in the fact that many clubs had been added to the Federation during the year through the 20th district, and about 200 new members. She stressed the importance of each club having a program outlined along the same general plan suggested by the state board, since this would make closer cooperation. Mrs. Farrell said that all departments would receive attention next year as usual but special emphasis should be placed upon legislation, education, international relations and Americanism.

A musical program was given which included the following:

Violin, "Mighty Lac & Rose" (Nevins); "Berceuse from Jocelyn" (Gardard)—Mr. Will Taylor.

Voice, "May Morning" (Denza); "Love Has Wings" (Rogers); "I Know Where A Lovely Garden Grows" (Densmore)—Mrs. Milo Vogt.

Yankees Smash Out Three Home Runs But White Sox Capture Ball Game 7 to 4

Chicago, May 8.—(AP)—The White Sox weathered an early inning barrage of three home runs and a triple by the Yankees to gain a 7 to 4 triumph as they celebrated Jimmie Dykes' first anniversary as their manager. It was their tenth straight home victory and kept them perched on top of the standing.

Rallies which netted two runs in the third and three in the fourth, both helped along by 42-year-old Sam Jones knocked bespectacled Johnny Broaca from the mound for his first defeat of the season. Jones, who steadied in the late inning, went the route for his third victory. He gave the Yanks only seven hits.

Broaca's departure kept intact the spreeing Chicagoans' record of not allowing an enemy starting pitcher to finish a game at Comiskey park this season.

The Sox, however, saw their "first blood" record denied as Jesse Hill, Yankee leadoff man, tripled in the first inning and scored on Red Rolfe's fly. It was only the third time in their 17 games that the Hose had allowed the opposition to score first.

George Selkirk followed with a first inning homer, Tony Lazzeri followed with one in the second and Bill Dickey contributed one in the third. The bases were empty each time.

Rip Radcliff led the Sox 12-hit attack with a double and a pair of singles to drive in four runs.

Jones started the third inning rally with a single. Gehrig made a wild row trying to force him at second. Radcliff's grounder Al Simmons' single and Zeke Bonura's fly scored the two runs.

Singles by Luke Appling, Jones, Jack Layne and Simmons, sandwiched round Radcliff's double meant three more and the lead in the fourth as Broaca went to the showers. After

Bill Terry's Giants Take Double Header From Cubs; Ott, Lindstrom Hit Homers

New York, May 8.—(AP)—Bill Terry's Giants felt the weight of the first onslaught from the west today, gave not an inch, and in two quick thrusts knocked over the Chicago Cubs twice, 3 to 1 and 6 to 2 today in the first double header of the local season.

The double victory, riding on Joe Moore's fifth home run of the season in the first game and Mel Ott's eighth in the second, boosted the Giants far out in front in the National League race with eleven victories in fourteen games and a record of eight straight conquests on the home grounds. The double defeat knocked the Cubs out of second place.

Kiki Cuyler's homer into the upper deck of the right field stands opening the Cubs' second inning of the first game, was the only score off big Red Parmelee who held the Cubs to three hits, allowing only one single in the last five. He was wild, though, passing six, hitting one, but he handcuffed the Cubs in the pinches.

Lon Warneke, losing his first game of the season after winning three straight, allowed the Giants six hits and all their runs before a pinch hitter forced him out in the seventh. Roy Henshaw finishing, Travis Jackson's single, a sacrifice, and Parmelee's single scored the Giants' third run in the fourth.

Bill Lee was thumped soundly by the Giants in the second game, Ott hitting far above the right field stands with two on to clinch the game in the third. Another barrage of four hits, singles by Ott, Jackson, Mark Koenig and Dick Bartell, with an error by Lindstrom and a hit batsman mixed in, gave the Giants three more in the sixth and finished Lee. Root set the Giants down in order in the last two.

Clyde Castelman, young right hander pitching his first full game for the Giants, allowed only two hits up to the sixth, when Lindstrom belted a homer into the left field deck with none on. A triple by Walter Stephenson, young catcher, and an error by Dick Bartell in the seventh gave the Cubs their second run.

Robins Noseout Cardinals 3-2

Brooklyn, May 8.—(AP)—Van Mungo's superb hurling and two "gift" runs off Paul Dean and Ed Heusser enabled the Dodgers to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 3 to 2 in a 12-inning battle today and regain second place in the National League.

Dean was ejected from the game by Umpire Dolly Stark for his protests over called balls after he had forced over a run in the third inning by passing Danny Taylor with the bases full. The Cards knocked the count in the seventh, tied it again in the eighth and stood off the Dodgers threats until Taylor and Leslie connected for successive doubles to start the twelfth.

Mungo granted only nine hits over the long route and chalked up eleven strikeouts.

Braves Smother Pirates 12 to 3

Boston, May 8.—(AP)—The Boston Braves ended a batting slump with a mighty burst today as they whaled three Pittsburgh pitchers for a dozen runs and a 12-3 victory. The Pirates' infielders performed in ragged fashion and had 5 errors charged against them, three by Arkie Vaughn.

Jim Weaver was the outstanding victim for the Tribesmen belted him for seven hits and as many runs in less than four innings. Les Mallon led the Boston attack with a single, a double and a home run and Handy Randy Moore, filling in for the influenza-stricken Baxter Jordan at first base, was a great help to the Boston cause. He contributed a two-bagger and a triple, the latter blow coming with Urbanski and Mallon on base.

Freddie Frankhouse ran into considerable trouble in the second inning, when the Pirates scored all of their runs, but he settled down and held them to a total of seven hits, two of which were made by pinch-hitters in the ninth after two were out.

The Braves put on three-run rallies in the fourth, when Weaver was relieved by Salveson, and in the fifth, when Swift took over the mound and retired the Boston side.

Braves Smother Pirates 12 to 3

Boston, May 8.—(AP)—The Boston Braves ended a batting slump with a mighty burst today as they whaled three Pittsburgh pitchers for a dozen runs and a 12-3 victory. The Pirates' infielders performed in ragged fashion and had 5 errors charged against them, three by Arkie Vaughn.

Jim Weaver was the outstanding victim for the Tribesmen belted him for seven hits and as many runs in less than four innings. Les Mallon led the Boston attack with a single, a double and a home run and Handy Randy Moore, filling in for the influenza-stricken Baxter Jordan at first base, was a great help to the Boston cause. He contributed a two-bagger and a triple, the latter blow coming with Urbanski and Mallon on base.

Freddie Frankhouse ran into considerable trouble in the second inning, when the Pirates scored all of their runs, but he settled down and held them to a total of seven hits, two of which were made by pinch-hitters in the ninth after two were out.

The Braves put on three-run rallies in the fourth, when Weaver was relieved by Salveson, and in the fifth, when Swift took over the mound and retired the Boston side.

Mrs. Raymond Eades Describes Oklahoma Dust Storm Menace

Former Waverly Woman Tells Story of Disaster in Letter to Sister

Altho the drought is broken in these parts, dust storms continue to interest a wide section of country in the central west. Mrs. Raymond Eades of LaVerne, Okla., has written a description of the storms to her sister, Miss Hattie Tipps of Champaign, who has sent a copy of the letter to the Journal-Courier.

Mrs. Eades is also a sister of Charles Tipps, residing east of the city. The letter follows: "You cannot possibly imagine the picture of what we have been through. We have had only one inch of rainfall this year, and very little in the last 12 months. There are dust storms almost every day. We have had them seven consecutive days more than once. "Today it is terrible and at times I cannot see more than 50 yards. Everything is almost buried in the house by dust despite all we can do. Often we cannot tell there is no sun on the kitchen floor. Everyone has rolled up their rugs and taken down curtains, covering up all furniture that would be damaged. Hanging quilts and blankets over the windows does not keep the dust out. It is worse west of us than here. The hospitals are overflowing with dust pneumonia patients, and the Red Cross is sending help.

Wheat Crop Destroyed "People who can are leaving here as rapidly as possible. The wheat is practically dead; grass and all vegetation will be killed within a short time if rain does not come.

"One of the most severe dust storms was two weeks ago Sunday. It came about 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon after a warm and beautiful day. We could see the dust in the air far to the north and west. We heard the wind raising and it turned pitch dark in an instant. It was so black that we couldn't see each other, standing side by side. I groped my way for matches and lit a lamp, and we found our way to the outside cave. The intense storm lasted 30 minutes or more. It was the most terrifying thing I have ever seen. The dirt was rolling and twisting when it struck. We hope we never see a thing like it again.

"The sky clouds up and we hope for rain, but in a little while we see the dirt begin to roll up in the north and west. We haven't made any gains—there is no up. These dust storms are passed the joking stage."

Relief Office Will Close Unless More Funds Are Provided

Activities Scheduled to Halt Thursday Night: Hope Still Held

Morgan county offices of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission will be closed Thursday night if funds with which to continue relief are not forthcoming.

Phillie J. Kelly, director of relief for this county, said Wednesday that the funds will be exhausted at the close of work Thursday. Through economies effected during past months, the local director and her assistants were enabled to carry on relief activities for 10 days after offices in some counties were closed.

Failure of the legislature to act favorably on some plan of continuing relief will affect a number of work projects now in progress locally. More than 700 persons are employed on work relief jobs in Morgan county.

20 Chicago Teams To Bowl In Tourney

Grand Rapids Women's Team Still Out in Front For Title

Chicago—(P)—Twenty of Chicago's fastest teams will bid for championship honors in the women's national bowling tournament tonight. Local favorites have been unable to penetrate among the top-notchers to date, but it is more than likely that the standings will be changed after the crack Windy City quintets swing into action.

Budweisers of Chicago, boasting a season's average of 865 and led by Marie Warmber, national match champion, will lead the invasion of the local teams while the Blues, who hung up a 1,070 game in league competition last week, will also crash the maples in an effort to topple the leading Panatorium Majors of Grand Rapids from the lead.

Rose Schneider, St. Paul, created two upsets in the minor events early last night, the only major changes of the day. Scoring games of 221, 195, 214, Miss Schneider wrestled the singles lead from Ella Burnmeister of Madison, Wis., and took the top spot in the all-event as a result of a nine-game total of 1,740, passing Bertha Rooley, Grand Rapids, by a single pin.

Rainfall in May is 4.36 Inches, Report

Believe Precipitation Will Equal Record of Two Years Ago

Thus far in May this section of the country has received 4.36 inches of rainfall. Dr. F. P. Norbury, local weather observer, said Wednesday. More rain is in prospect, he stated. It is likely the fall during the month will equal the record of two years ago.

During May, 1933, 7.24 inches of rain fell in this county. This was really the last good rain before the drought, which has plagued the country for so many months. It now appears that the drought is broken, as there is plenty of moisture in the ground.

Labor Leaders Have Had Small Success With Legislation

Seek to Get Several Bills Through Legislature; Pension Plan Up

Springfield, Ill.—(P)—Labor leaders, having had indifferent success so far with their legislative program, today renewed efforts to advance a series of bills through the House and Senate. Only one labor measure is even in sight of the passage stage. It is the Lee bill indefinitely extending the life of the 1933 law permitting the state to fix minimum wages for women and minors having industrial jobs. It was passed by the Senate last week and is being considered by a House committee.

Other measures sponsored by organized labor are still fighting for passage as the legislature swings into the closing weeks of crowded calendars and long sessions.

An old age pension plan has at last reached the House calendar. The consolidated Prignano-Lenane-Collins bill, drafted by a sub-committee to give persons over 65 a dollar a day, was unanimously approved late yesterday by the House industrial affairs committee. But no provision has yet been made for the financing of the pensions.

The Fitzgerald bill for unemployment insurance has been recommended for passage by the same committee.

Fear Filibuster on TVA Bill by Norris Will End NRA Vote

Modified Recovery Bill to be Presented Next in Senate

Washington—(P)—A prospect that a bill dealing with NRA's future might get bottled up behind a filibuster aimed at another measure served to complicate matters in the senate today. The filibuster—if it should develop—would be against a motion that the senate consider the Norris Bill which seeks to give the Tennessee Valley Authority definite powers to sell surplus electricity.

With the bonus out of the way, Chairman Harrison of the finance committee had planned to bring up the bill to extend a modified NRA until next April. Senator Norris (R., Neb.) won recognition first, however, and moved that his proposal making many changes in the TVA act be taken up.

Senator Austin (R., Va.) immediately served notice he would discuss the motion at length. It was understood Norris would give way to the NRA measure if his proposal led to lengthy debate, but a possible adjournment to permit senators to attend the funeral of Senator Cutting of New Mexico probably would delay consideration of the NRA bill until next week.

Norris' bill seeks to confer on TVA powers to sell surplus energy which a federal district court held the agency did not have under present law. Norris contends, however, that the measure was not designed for that purpose. He feels the act needs clarifying anyway.

WARWICK Plumbing Co.
Call 1444 For What You Need In The Plumbing Line
605 N. Sandy

The SPEED OF A $10 BILL

Did you ever wonder what happens to a piece of money after it leaves your hands? Just imagine the daily adventures of a Ten Dollar Bill! The chance of that money having any rest is very slim.

Suppose that you stopped in this morning to pay a plumbing bill with a brand new Ten Dollar Note. The plumber (to whom you paid the money) decides to purchase two new pairs of shoes that he saw advertised. Along goes the Ten Dollar Bill.

The shoe merchant, pleased with the extra business, feels he can afford to buy a new suit.

From the clothier the Ten Dollar Bill marches on to pay a grocery bill.

The grocer calls his wife to tell her that collections on account have been unusually good. He can let her have ten dollars for that dress she saw advertised in the newspapers on special sale.

The dress sale has done well and the owner of the shop takes the Ten Dollar Bill shopping for a new piece of furniture for his home.

By that time it may be almost three o'clock and the Ten Dollar Bill is deposited in the bank with others of its kind. But later in the afternoon the furniture store mails a check to the newspaper to pay for the advertising which appealed to the dress shop owner and others. Part of that check is represented by the Ten Dollar Bill. In the morning it will be drawn out to meet the newspaper payroll.

Stimulated into action, the Ten Dollar Bill was led on its many adventures by advertising. It did seventy dollars business the first day. Although not quite so new by then it starts on its merry way again through another payroll. It will be used to purchase things which people desire and know are available through advertising. Perhaps the same Ten Dollar Bill will come back to you the next day, or the next, in payment for some of your goods, or your services.

This particular Ten Dollar Bill, on the other hand, might have gone no farther in the one day than the plumber. He in turn might have put it in the "old sock" and it would have become stagnated capital.

Only when money is used as a symbol of exchange does it have worth. It is the things that satisfy our wants which possess real value. The more often a greater number of people can use a given piece of money to satisfy their wants, the greater the service that money performs.

In this respect advertising plays a very important role. It creates known values of merchandise. It tells where, when, and how money may be readily exchanged for things wanted. Of the hundreds of products used daily and made familiar to you through advertising in the newspapers, think how many of them were very high priced or entirely unknown a hundred or even fifty years ago.

Advertising has put an end to the old-time guess-work of spending for unknown values. And the vast increase in trade brought about by advertising has given the Ten Dollar Bill many times greater value in terms of the number of human wants which it can satisfy.

When you read the advertisements in this newspaper, remember that they are the motors that keep money moving. When money moves the country prospers.

Commanding Officer Makes Report of Work; Need Clothing, Shoes

Salvation Army activities in Jacksonville and the community during April were extensive and varied. Adjutant and Mrs. Joseph Frankman have compiled a report showing the income and expenditures were almost identical, all of the income going for relief and other work of the Army.

Fifteen local families were helped with donations during the month. A total of 124 transients were given assistance, including meals, beds and over-night lodging in particular cases.

With relief activities hanging in balance, the work of the Salvation Army appears greater than ever. The Army will be pleased to receive any clothing, shoes, furniture, books or dishes. Persons having such donations should call Salvation Army headquarters and the goods will be sent for.

FORMER CASS SHERIFF SETTLES CHARGES; RELEASED BY COURT

Virginia—Edwin Reichert, former sheriff of Cass county, was brought before County Judge Lloyd M. McClure today on a charge of wife and child abandonment. The complaint was filed by his wife, Mrs. Bonnie Reichert of Beardstown, and prosecuted by State's Attorney C. G. Colburn.

Reichert was arrested at Industry, Ill., by McDonough county officers and brought here by Sheriff Gus Campbell. In addition to the charge of wife and child abandonment, he faced accusations of passing bad checks.

In county court Wednesday morning Reichert agreed to pay $40 a month for the support of his wife and three children, and made arrangements to pay up the checks. He was thereupon released.

To St. Charles
Ivan Vincent DeSilva of Beardstown was brought into the Cass county court today as a delinquent boy and was sent by the court to the State School for Boys at St. Charles. The youth was accused of several misdeeds in the Beardstown community.

Among the New Berlin callers in the city Wednesday was Mrs. Ann Keenan.

Chain Letter Writers Do Not Shame Easily

Uncle Sam Displeased But The Game Goes Merrily On

Uncle Sam, his care-worn face wrinkled by new perplexities, points an accusing finger at millions of his nieces and nephews shakes his head gravely and says "Shame on you!"

Do heads drop from mortification? Does this this reprimand hit the mark? The deluge of chain letter mail that continued to go through the Jacksonville post office, and offices in thousands of other cities, indicated that Americans took their "bawling out" lightly.

Still rivaling the Christmas rush, chain letter mail burdened postal workers here Wednesday. Rumors of success in the chain letter game flew thick and fast. Several Jacksonville residents are beginning to get "returns," according to gossip.

Series of Success
One automobile salesman, so the story goes, has received more than $200 in dimes and the letters are still coming.

A resident of West State street, a woman, has passed the $100 class and her mail is increasing, rather than going the other way.

But when these people are asked for an official confirmation, that is a different matter. Too much publicity is not good for the chain letter business, for Uncle Sam is rather curious about names and facts, and might step in and help himself to some of the dividends.

There is a tendency on the part of most of the chain letter authors to dodge facts and figures, both as to the mathematical chance of reaping a fortune, and of any remuneration they receive.

New Chains Welded
New and novel chains are springing up here overnight as citizens hasten to "get theirs" before the saturation point arrives. From nickel and dime ring-around the roses, the chains have grown to a $1 "guarantee" proposition, whereby the holder of the letter gives it to two friends, personally seeing that each mails $1 to the person at the top of the list. The anticipated result is $1,024. The list is comprised of 10 names.

A two-bit chain made its appearance the first of the week. It contains but 5 names, but the writer is requested to make and mail out 8 copies. Because of the small number of names, the chain is said to be exceedingly fast, and a sender stands a chance of collecting $1,024 if the chain remains unbroken.

"Take a Chance—Be Honest With Yourself," one of the typical chain letters urges.

Beset by a multitude of inquiries, the post office department in Washington has reiterated its stand on the chain letter question. The plan is illegal because it violates the lottery and fraud laws of the postal service, the department ruled.

Solicitor Carl A. Crowley cited several reasons why the chain letter comes under the category of crime. "The scheme," he said, "is a violation of the lottery law because at the time a person gets in on the chain he has no knowledge of the extent to which the chain has already progressed and in parting with his money he has no guarantee that he will receive anything in return."

"It is a violation of the postal fraud statute because the scheme is economically unsound and it cannot possibly work out as contemplated because there are neither people nor money enough in the country to assure all the participants receiving what they are promised."

Miss Anna Mae Ryan, of Franklin, was a shopper in Jacksonville Wednesday.

The program for the evening was in charge of Bryan Kneisley and he introduced Roy Phears, fire chief, who gave some very interesting statistics upon the fires in this locality for the past five years.

Mr. Phears stated that since Jan. 1st, 1930, there had been 75 fires in the city of Winchester and 11 fires in the nearby country. The valuation of the city property totaled $202,910.00 and the damage resulting from fires totaled $14,505.00, which represented a fire loss of 7 per cent of the valuation. The fires in the nearby country were in proportion valued at $27,650.00 and the damage from fire totaled $27,650.00, representing a 100 per cent loss for country fires.

Mr. Phears gave other statistics which demonstrated the great service which is rendered each year by the members of the fire department. Mayor H. W. Leib gave a brief address and outlined the work of his past administration and that which they hoped to accomplish during the ensuing two years. He stated that it was likely that the city council would pass an ordinance regulating the sale of meat and milk and told of the educational campaign which he had inaugurated to further protect the buyers of these products. He told of the use of the motor fuel tax in the improvement of the city streets, the act being made to control the sale of alcoholic liquors on Sunday and various other aims of the council.

COMMUNION IS OBSERVED

Bishop Griffin Delivers
Proclamation Here
Sunday

The annual communion Sunday designated by Our Most Rev. State Chaplain Bishop James A. Griffin, D.D., for Sunday was observed by the local council K of C, No. 888, at the 8:30 a. m. mass with Dean F. F. Formaz officiating. This practice has been general in Illinois jurisdiction since the days of the late Bishop Meldoun.

The proclamation of Bishop Griffin reads in part: "In accordance with the praise-worthy custom for the state chaplain to assign a Sunday for the various councils of Illinois to approach the Holy Table, I have designated May 10th, which happens to be this year, the second Sunday after Easter. I earnestly hope and pray that all councils of the K of C will receive Holy Communion on the same Sunday for the important question for each individual is not how fast the wheels of industry have turned in 1935, but how slow and firm were the feet of thoughtful men upon earth. Not how much improvement in the motor of man—a knowledge—love—understanding of the purpose of life.

We are passing through troublous times. May God grant to our president, to our governor, to the mayors of our various cities and to our church men the courage and the knowledge to spend themselves for the common weal. We are a patriotic order and I know of no better way to show our patriotism than in our prayers and personal sacrifices.

Each individual Knight of Columbus will have his own family problems and person concerns.

"On your communion Sunday I plead with you to remember church and state—God and Country."

Following services at the church a breakfast for the Knights was held at Route college boarding school with the following program:

Toastmaster—William Wagner, Jr.

Address of Welcome—Dr. V. T. J. Lenth.

Our Council in 1906—J. Leo McGinnis.

Our Educational Program—J. E. Coonen.

Notre Dame Council in 1924—A. G. Highberger.

H. S. Debaters Win; One of Two Teams Undeclared in Meet

Kent, O., May 8.—(AP)—Oklahoma City Central High School's debate team defeated Dwight, Ill., in the national high school speech tournament as the sixth round of debating ended tonight. Jacksonville, Ill., drew a bye. These teams will be in the semi-finals tomorrow.

Kent, Ohio, May 8.—(Special)—Jacksonville, Ill., and Omaha, Neb., high schools remain the only two undeclared debate teams in the National Tournament at the end of the sixth round of debates being held here.

Of the seventeen teams that remained in the tournament when debating started today, only nine teams were still in the running tonight. Eighty-eight teams were entered in the tournament when debating started last Monday.

So far during the tournament Jacksonville has won six straight debates, drawing a bye in the sixth. Omaha, the other undeclared team, has drawn two byes.

Jacksonville's affirmative team will debate Los Angeles, Cal., at nine o'clock Thursday morning. After this round only five teams will remain. Even a loss in this round will not eliminate Jacksonville as a team is allowed two losses in the first seven rounds. Following this round one loss eliminates a team.

In its present position Jacksonville is sure of entering the quarter finals.

Kent, Ohio, May 8.—(AP)—The auditorium of Kent State College resounded today with oratory, declamatory and extemporaneous speeches as the National High School Speech Tournament entered the final half of its program.

Tournament officials announced today that the first place winners in all sections except debate will broadcast their arguments from Cleveland at 1:30 p. m. (E. S. T.) Friday (over the C. B. S. network).

Eleven teams survived the fifth round of debating today. They are: Watertown, S. D.; Bakersfield, Calif.; Topeka, Kansas; Sioux Falls, S. D.; Dwight, Ill.; Jacksonville, Ill.; Los Angeles, Calif.; Louisville, Ky.; St. Xavier, Omaha, Neb.; Central, River Rouge, Mich.; and Oklahoma City, Okla., Central.

After the fifth round of debate seven of the eleven surviving teams were westerners.

In this round Dwight, Ill., defeated Dyersburg, Tenn.; Jacksonville, Ill., defeated Canton, Kans., and Los Angeles, Calif., defeated Mendota, Ill.

Two defeats meant elimination.

Survivors in the humorous declamatory section after the fourth round included: Virgil Gains, Dupo, Ill.; Betty Jo Larson, Lincoln, Ill.; Julia Pitchford, Granite City, Ill.; and Margaret Lund, Peoria, Ill.
